Opgaver uden bilag – kl. 09.00 – 09.40

ALL of the tasks MUST be completed.

Task 1a and 1b – max. 700 words (in total)

Task 2 and 3 – unlimited amount of words

Task 1a

What can be deduced from Tabel 1 about the correlation between the number of unemployed (between 17-64 years old), and children growing up in a household with a one-parent provider(income).

Your answer must be supported by a linear regression diagram displaying the correlation between the two variables.

Include knowledge about inequality in your answer (include additional theories/concepts you may find relevant)

Task 1b

Based on the data in Tabel 2 - Complete three explanatory hypotheses which explain the difference between men and women regarding their income, education, and employment.

Each of the explanatory hypotheses must be supported by an academic elaboration. Apply theories/concepts you find relevant.

Generation X

Task 2

Examine to what extent the claims about Generation Z in enclosure B1 can be supported by the data in enclosure B2 (figur 1, figure 2, figur 3, tabel 1, and tabel 2). All of the data must be included in your examination.

The examination must be supported by relevant calculations, and include a diagram based on some of the calculations.

The examination must display knowledge about voter behaviour. Include additional theory/concepts you find relevant to strengthen the academic level of your examination.

Task 3

Write a memo to Mette Frederiksen - the leader of the Social Democratic Party. Your memo must contain two clear strategies which focus on how the Social Democratic Party can increase its support among young voters.

Your memo must include elements from enclosure B3, apply theories/concepts related to party behaviour, and knowledge of the current political situation/agendas (since the Danish parliamentary election in November 2022). Include additional theory/concepts you find relevant.

Remember your memo must include pro/con arguments related to both the strategies + a conclusion containing a short recommendation of one of the strategies and "why".
